I like N900 , I like MicroB web browser, and I also like to use the remember me options in my most frequently use websites and social networks, what I don't like is how easily anyone can have access to this so I decide to make it a little complicated for any average user to use the browser. (yes it works only for average phone users I know it won't prevent any of you to get through it :P)

	Desktop "Web" shortcut, this is actually a shortcut to my custom app using the "general_web" icon.
	This is what it opens, A simple code validation to open the browser. (this is my very first py app so don't expect much :P)
	*By the way I don't know py so y use "Illumination Software Creator" 100% recommended for newbie's like me.
	I also chance the app icon for web browser to prevent fools with initiative, so just me know the easy access to the web browser and use the less interesting icon anyone will bother to use. :P also think about using but this may call someone attention cause maybe it may look familiar.